- Plastic kitchen-size garbage bag (to keep work wet)
- Apron
- Large yellow grout sponge
- Kitchen gloves (can be worn for glazing work)

Available clays that the AMFA Museum Store sells:

Stan's Red - $30 (lowfire)

Recommended for the beginner, intermediate, or advanced student.

Stan's Red is an oxidation terra cotta clay and a favorite for those doing majolica or slip decorating. No grog. Range: Cone 06-1.

Phoenix - $30 (highfire)

Recommended for the beginner, intermediate, or advanced student.

All-around great stoneware body for throwing and hand building, Phoenix is one clay that seems to throw itself. It has a good amount of tooth without being rough on beginners' hands. The fine mullite grog in it has excellent thermal shock properties, making Phoenix a superior choice for ovenware. It also works nicely for a smooth raku body. In reduction, Phoenix fires a toasty light gray. In oxidation, it fires to a warm buff tone. Range: Cone 7-10.

Loafer's Glory - $30 (highfire)

Recommended for the intermediate or advanced student.

Loafer's Glory is a very popular porcelain-like clay with the attitude of a stoneware. It is very smooth, a joy to throw, and takes glazes extremely well. No grog. Range: Cone 7-11.

Helios Porcelain - $50 (highfire)

Recommended for the intermediate or advanced student.

Helios is a grog-based porcelain. It is very bright and a joy to throw. Believe it or not, Helios can be fired from cone 7 to 11 with fabulous results. Range: Cone 7-11.
